

Presenting Today's Featured Program...
How To Give An Effective Presentation
Presented by
Jason Banuski, HR One

Public speaking is often required of business owners and professionals, yet not everyone is trained to communicate effectively with audiences. Jason Banuski from HR One is a highly sought-after trainer and presenter and will teach a practical, confidence-building program designed to help entrepreneurs and leaders communicate with clarity, authority, and impact.

Participants will learn to organize their thoughts, deliver compelling presentations, speak confidently in group settings, and handle questions professionally. The training focuses on real-world business scenarios such as pitching services, motivating action, and representing a company in the community. Attendees will develop a stronger presence, improved messaging, and the confidence to connect successfully with clients, partners, and audiences.